

The Graduate School of Science and Technology Policy \(STP\) at the Korea Advanced Institute of Science and Technology \(KAIST\) announces two tenure track positions in global science and technology policy, with a start date of July 2025. This is an open-rank search, including scholars trained in STS, public policy, political science, law, or other applied social sciences, committed to working across intellectual, geographical, and institutional boundaries, and willing to create and lead a new field.

Specialization is open, and we are particularly interested in researchers addressing science and technology policy relevant to global challenges and issues in the context of Anthropocene, AI and cyber security, and nuclear policy. Preference will be given to applicants who combine theoretical and empirical approaches with strong methodological skills. STP plans to strengthen its research capability in these important and promising areas that require multidisciplinary and comparative perspectives. Successful candidates will contribute to efforts to facilitate collaborative scholarship across various departments and programs on campus.

Scholars interested in these positions are encouraged to contact search committee co-chairs Prof. Moon Choi (moonchoi365@gmail.com) and Prof. Chihyung Jeon (cjeon@kaist.edu) for more information. Application materials need to be submitted by January 10, 2025. In order to apply, please send your application materials listed below by email to cmpark@kaist.ac.kr
